

Residents Ask Council to Change Dump-site

It's Earl Warren vs. Roosevelt for Governor of California

Helen Gahagan And Rep. Nixon In Real Fight

Earl Warren Wins Nod by GOP, Easily

San Francisco, June 7—(AP)—Republican Earl Warren, 59, by near acclamation, and Democrat James Roosevelt, 43, by a slim but growing margin, stacked up today as California's party nominees for governor.

The voters in yesterday's primary election forged another sharply defined November runoff for the U. S. Senate. It's between Rep. Helen Gahagan Douglas, Los Angeles New Deal Democrat, and Rep. Richard Nixon, Whittier Republican. Senator Sheridan Downey, a Democrat, did not seek reelection.

Incumbents Lead

All incumbent congressmen were leading on their own party tickets—11 Republicans and nine Democrats. Of these, five Democrats and five Republicans were out in front on both major party slates. Two Democrats held the edge in the contest for the vacated Douglas and Nixon seats.

Attorney General Frederick N. Howser, a Republican, was jockeyed out by the voters on the basis of incomplete but indicative returns. Republicans picked Edward Shattuck, wartime colonel under General Douglas MacArthur, to go in to the finals. Democrats chose San Francisco's 44-year-old district attorney, Edmund G. (Pat) Brown.

California election law permits office-seekers to try for as many party nominations as they like. Thus, Democratic voters can support registered Republicans on the Democratic ticket.

How It Works

If a candidate wins his own nomination and winds up high man on the rival slate, he is elected in the primary. If he gets only the opposing nomination, he is disqualified.

Warren crossfiled. So did Roosevelt.

Legislators Get Call on Rent Control

Washington, June 7—(AP)—Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson says he will call the Illinois legislature into a special rent control session June 19.

The session will be canceled if congress renews present federal rent controls, he told newsmen here yesterday. Under present law, controls expire June 30.

The special session call will go out June 15, Stevenson said.

He said he was encouraged over chances of federal rent control extension after talking with Senators Lucas and Douglas, Illinois Democrats.

But he said he nevertheless will go ahead with plans for the special session. He will ask the legislature to enact a state rent control law if it appears federal controls are dying.

Stevenson said the Illinois senators told him there is a "good chance" for federal extension now, although favorable action is by no means certain.

"At any rate, I understand it looks much better than it did when I was here two months ago," he said.

Stevenson left for home late yesterday. He had come here to speak at President Truman's conference on industrial safety.

She Was His Girl Friend But She 'Done Him Wrong'

Van Nuys, Calif., June 7—(AP)—A husky, ruddy-cheeked ex-G.I. who robbed a bank for his lady love only to have her turn him in, is held on $7,500 bond pending federal grand jury action.

"She was my first girl friend," signed Donald Bookwalter, 23, at his arraignment yesterday.

It was "to prove my love" for a brunette Margaret Sweet, 20, that the former department store messenger from Sacramento, Calif., robbed a branch of the Bank of America of $1,500 Monday, he testified.

Bookwalter said he met Miss Sweet, a taxi dancer, at a ballroom 10 days ago. He spent $50 to $70 a night, dancing only with her until his funds ran low.

When he bought her a horse, saddle and riding habit after the hold-up, she became suspicious. A newspaper description of the robber seemed to fit him, she said, and she asked him to drive her to the police station. She came out with officers, who made the arrest.

Fine Character Goes to Church, Poisons Only 12

Paris, June 7—(AP)—Mme. Marie Besnard looks like a kindly grandmother and claims a "gentle character," but French police says she's responsible for the arsenic deaths of 12 of her close relatives.

After nearly three months of mental tests, doctors yesterday ruled the 54-year-old French peasant woman was sane and must face trial for murder.

Mme. Besnard is accused of poisoning her parents, two husbands, the parents of her second husband and six other persons—all since 1927. Conviction could mean death on the guillotine.

During the sanity tests Mme. Besnard told the doctors:

"I have a gentle character. I go to mass every Sunday and I take Communion at Easter and on All Saints' Day."

Council Votes To Purchase More Property

The Dixon city council voted 4 to 1 last night to authorize the purchase of a lot at Monroe and 5th St., as the site for a building to house city street equipment.

Mayor Hofmann cast the dissenting vote, charging that the price of $2,750 is excessive. He also said that other, cheaper lots are available. Commissioner Joseph Vaile insisted that Mayor Hofmann was "butting into my department" and moved that the purchase price of the lot be approved. All Commissioners voted "yes" with Mayor Hofmann voting "no."

Commissioners voting for the expenditure were Joseph E. Vaile, George Lindquist, Forrest Shawger and Carl Plowman.

Not Necessary, Claim

It was pointed out to The Telegraph today that the City Council is voting "for land purchases that are absolutely unnecessary." It was stated that there is property at the sewage plant and also at the cemetery that could be used. Some of the cemetery land will not be used by the city for another 65 years. It was also stated that even now and in the past, some of the city equipment has been stored in a shed at the cemetery.

"Why," asked The Telegraph's inquirer, "should not the city utilize the land it already owns instead of running around adding additional burdens to the taxpayer's pocketbook?"

How About Building?

As it stands now, the city will probably own the lot at Monroe and 5th street, but wind up minus

Shot to Death Near His Farm At Fairfield, Ill.

Little Earl Target Earlier This Week

Fairfield, Ill., June 7—(AP)—Bullets from ambush were reported to have killed the third of the five Shelton brothers today. For decades the Sheltons have waged gang war in Illinois.

Today's victim was Roy Shelton, about 56. A Wayne county deputy sheriff, Elmer Brown, said that Roy was shot to death by a hidden enemy on his Pond creek bottom farm near Fairfield.

Echoes Other Days

The shooting scene has echoed to shots which killed Carl Shelton, reputed brains of the family gang on a dusty country road in October, 1947, at the age of 59. A year ago, Big Earl Shelton, 54, was seriously wounded in the same area in May, 1949.

Big Earl survived, and was wounded again last month—a nick in the arm which he joked about.

Big Earl and Dalton, 42, who has kept himself aloof from the family's feuding, are the only survivors.

The other brother, Bernie, was killed by a lone marksman who picked him off in front of a tavern near Peoria, July 26, 1948.

Roy Shelton was one of the less known brothers. He had no recent public record of trouble. He once served a year at Menard prison for robbery with a gun. But in recent years, his activities centered on his farm.

Killings Unsolved

The killings of Carl and Bernie were never solved. All the Shelton shootings followed the ambush pattern.

Monday this week, Little Earl Shelton, 34, nephew of Big Earl, escaped a nephew in another shooting. His companion, Dellos Wylie, 35, was critically wounded in the back in an ambush attack

Rackets, Dope Now Linked by Senate Probers

Washington, June 7—(AP)—A special senate investigating committee set its sights today on an underworld ring reported to control a nation-wide traffic in narcotics.

Chairman Kefauver (D-Tenn) said the committee was going after the "higher-ups" who government agents say are directing 800 people trafficking in drugs, white slavery, gambling and murder.

After Gang Leaders

"We'll have to find some way to get at those people on top," Kefauver told reporters.

Alcoholics Drink to Make Their Existence Bearable

At the outset of this article, it should be made clear that we are not dealing with drunkenness, temperance, prohibition or any of the moral or political aspects of alcohol. We are solely interested in those phases of drinking which signify the threat of alcoholism. We need to know what compulsive drinking is, for it is the compulsion to drink which denotes the disease of alcoholism.

People drink for a number of interesting reasons. They want to be polite, sociable, have a good time, quench thirst, pep up the appetite, promote a feeling of self-importance, or possibly seek companionship usually found in drinking atmospheres. These and many other reasons, too numerous to mention, may or may not be the real motive behind one's drinking. However, none of these mentioned herein aptly fit the purpose of the alcoholic's drinking. Though he may provide any one of the excuses if asked directly why he drinks.

Inner Disorder

The alcoholic drinks because he has to if he is to find living bearable. He is irresistibly driven to drink even though he may hate the taste of liquor, despite the results of his drinking and himself for drinking. Some inner disorder literally causes him to surrender reason to the madness of alcoholic indulgence. His drinking is the symptom of an underlying illness. The disordered thinking, impulsiveness and pent-up emotional fury of the alcoholic find explosive outlet in the form of uncontrolled drinking.

Dr. Abraham Myerson of Boston points out that one should be mindful of a possible drinking problem if he or she experiences one of the following motives for drinking: 1. Enjoying a party or social gathering only when liquor

Western Union Offices Used For Extensive Race Betting

St. Louis, June 7—(AP)—Investigators reported yesterday that confidential files seized in a raid on a national betting headquarters told of extensive wagers being handled through Western Union managers.

Copies of thousands of telegrams and letters were obtained in the raid. Police arrested Sidney Wyman and Steve Montefelice.

Prosecuting Attorney Stanley Wallach of St. Louis county called Wyman a "current kingpin of the gambling fraternity."

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch said the files showed Western Union managers were offered "25 per cent of the winnings at the end of the month, after deducting expenses for wire charges and form sheets."

The betting commissioners making the offer were listed as C. J. Rich & Co.

In New York City, the Western Union Telegraph company said its instructions prohibited employees from accepting "gifts, commissions or gratuities from betting officials or other similar establishments."

Wyman and Montefelice were released on $1,000 bond each to answer any charges that may be filed against them.

Hard Way Home

Bovingdon, England, June 7—(AP)—A flying nursery which left California six days ago landed here today with its disgruntled, weary load of 40 wives, 35 children, and seven husbands.

The airliners had been chartered to bring former British women married to Americans back with their children for an English holiday. But a dispute over landing, the plane shuttled from California to Connecticut, then to Miami, Havana, and Newfoundland before crossing the Atlantic.

Petitioners To Wait, Then Plan Action

Hofmann Promises Action to Group

The garbage disposal activities of the City of Dixon are beginning to smell again.

This became evident at Tuesday night's Council meeting when Attorney George Nichols filed a petition bearing the names of 150 residents and property owners, objecting to the present garbage dump site in the south-east section of the city. Many of the objectors were in attendance at the meeting when the petition was presented.

They're Reasonable

Attorney Nichols, in presenting the petition, indicated that the objectors are not being unreasonable in their request that the city find "other methods or other dumping grounds" for the city garbage and trash.

On the other hand, Mr. Nichols assured the council that unless the Commissioners take steps to correct the garbage evil in the south-east area that "something will be done." He also suggested that an open meeting of the council be held at which time taxpayers be given an opportunity to air their views.

Promised Action

Mayor J. Fred Hofmann advised Attorney Nichols that he and members of the council appreciated the feeling of the people in the

Slot Machines Taken By Thugs at Chicago

Chicago, June 7—(AP)—Gunmen wearing jaunty sports togs raided the Olympia Fields Country club today, held off 20 members and fled with a dozen slot machines.

Emil Fraccaro, club manager, said the machines were worth $4,200 and were loaded with coins. The men arrived at the club in three cars. Two stayed at the cars and three went into the clubhouse.

Deputy sheriffs termed the robbery an "attempt by the syndicate to muscle in." It was the third of its kind in recent weeks.

Vandals Raise Havoc With Oat Field Here

Complaint has been filed to the Lee county sheriff's office of vandalism being committed along Page Drive west of the city limits. A field of new oats planted south and west of the Borden condenser has been the scene of numerous depredations and cars have been driven through the small grain crushing down the plants. Edward Lambert, the owner of the crop has filed complaint and will file charges against any car driver caught enterin gor leaving the field.

Boy Killed Father Because He Thought It 'Right Thing'

Charleston, W. Va., June 7—(AP)—A 15-year-old boy charged with the murder of his father calmly told a jury he thought he had done the "right thing."

Jimmy Basham, east bank high school sophomore, said yesterday he hated his father.

Why?

"Because he threatened to kill me and because he had beaten me and mother many times."

The slight youth is charged with slaying his father, Charles Ted Basham 45, a coal miner, with a .22 calibre rifle as the parent slept in a chair in the living room of the family house at Hansford last April 2.

The boy pleaded innocent. Prosecutor Frank L. Taylor said the death penalty would not be asked because of his age.

Hero's Funeral For Lord Wavell

London, June 7.—(AP)—Britain gave Field Marshal Lord Wavell a hero's funeral today in historic Westminster Abbey.

The body of the veteran of Palestine, Somaliland, Crete, Tobruk, and Burma was brought to Westminster by boat from London Tower, where it had been lying in state since his death on May 26.

Representatives of the royal family mingled with high military officials of many countries as the funeral procession moved up the Thames. Wavell was the first great British commander since Lord Nelson to be carried to his funeral by water.

Following the service, Lord Wavell's body was to be buried privately in Winchester.

Segregation of Whites and Negroes Often Before Court

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, June 7.—(AP)—Fifty-four years ago the Supreme Court ruled, in effect, that segregation of Negroes by state law is all right so long as they get equal treatment with whites.

"It doesn't seem unreasonable," the court said. And since then no Supreme Court—including the present one—has tried to wipe out that ruling, at least in one strike. But—

Chipping Away
In recent years the court has certainly been chipping away at it, cutting down segregation and allied matters a little here, a little there, in such different fields as education, travel, voting, and buying property.

In fact in the field of civil rights for Negroes the court has gone a lot further than congress.

This story will try to give the background on what has happened.

Dred Scott Decision

Before the Civil War, when there was still slavery, the most important Supreme Court decision on Negroes was given in 1857 in the case of Dred Scott, a Negro slave.

His owner had taken him from the slave state of Missouri into the north where slavery was forbidden and then later back to Missouri. Scott argued that his stay in the free north had made him free. So he sued for his freedom.

The court gave an historic decision: That Negroes were property, not citizens of the U. S. and couldn't be citizens even if they were freed. Therefore, not being a citizen, a Negro had no rights of citizens, including the right to sue in federal court.

Slaves Freed

Then the war came. All slaves were freed. And in 1868 the 14th amendment to the constitution was adopted, completely wiping out the thinking of the Supreme Court in the Dred Scott decision.

This amendment said all persons born or naturalized in the U. S. are citizens and no state can pass a law abridging the privileges of a citizen or deprive him of equal protection of the laws.

(This 14th amendment has been a key in all the big, subsequent decisions by the court on Negroes, particularly the part which guarantees him equal protection of the laws.)

Segregation Laws

But slowly after this, the southern states, full of former slaves, began passing laws to segregate Negroes from whites. In 1890 Louisiana passed a law saying Negroes must be kept separate on trains.

Did that violate the 14th amendment? The court had to face it in 1896. It ruled that such a segregation law was not unconstitutional.

But no court since 1896 has tackled the whole wide problem of segregation head-on. Meaning: No Supreme Court since that day has ruled that segregation—that is, any kind of segregation by law—is wrong or unconstitutional.

But—instead, the courts have

More Red Jap Purges; Direct Paper's Policy

Tokyo, June 7.—(AP)—General MacArthur tonight ordered 17 more Japanese Communists purged.

Banned were those responsible for the editorial policies of Akahata, the party newspaper in Japan.

MacArthur, allied occupation commander, said in a second letter to Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida, the new move was an alternate "method of correction" to closing the newspaper or re-establishing censorship. Both of these courses, he said, were repugnant to him.

The new MacArthur purge order came a few hours after the Red party had named an eight man "leading group" to replace the 24 politburo members purged by the government yesterday on MacArthur's orders.

Included in the new purge list was Katsumi Kikunami who was tackled the problem from different angles, chipping away at the idea of segregation, narrowing down the power of states to segregate.

named as one of the eight in the "leading group" announced at party headquarters. Others purged tonight were mainly editorial workers on the newspaper.

The announcement of the new Red leaders carefully refrained from calling them members of the central committee, 24 of whom members were banned from political life yesterday by the government on MacArthur's orders.

Alcoholics Drink, Make Life Bearable

is available. 2. Longing for the time of day when one can drink. 3. Considering alcohol necessary to relaxation or enjoyment. 4. Turning automatically to alcohol each day to overcome anxiety, disgust, fatigue or frustration. 5. Having a drinking objective which is something different than the drink itself—using alcohol to acquire a state of mind which one cannot attain through normal means.

Types of Drinkers

There are various types of drinkers and the alcoholic may have passed through the respective classifications slowly or rapidly or may have gapped some of them to become alcoholic without progressive formality. The moderate drinker is one who uses a small amount of alcohol from time to time for taste and mild effect. He can stop drinking at any time without any feeling of loss or deprivation. He is not dependent on alcohol. The habitual social drinker in fatigue or frustration, indulges practically every day for a drinking objective which is something different than the drink itself—using alcohol to acquire a state of mind which one cannot attain through normal means. Over a period of time, he might increase his drinking in order to get the desired effect once produced with less alcohol.

This would be due to the increased tolerance level brought about through continued use of alcohol. The excessive drinker usually gets along without alcohol if he so desires. However, he ordinarily drinks frequently and in large quantities because he has to. He runs the risk of dulling his personality assets in time and producing troublesome situations which might invite escape through alcohol. The alcohol addict is a person who cannot keep up his interest in life without the use of large quantities of alcohol. He cannot accept the responsibilities or failure of life without recourse to alcohol. Such a drinker cannot give up drinking voluntarily even when he realizes that it is harming himself and others.

Chronic Alcoholics

Chronic alcoholics are those who have developed bodily or mental disorders as a result of prolonged heavy drinking, or who had them prior to taking their first drink and aggravated them through excessive drinking. A large number of alcoholics show a history of 10 to 15 years of relatively controlled drinking before developing the compulsive, uncontrolled phase.

There are two types of chronic alcoholics who are classified as primary and secondary compulsive drinkers. The primary type is one who was basically maladjusted before he ever commenced to use alcohol. His emotional development from childhood was faulty and when in his adult years, maintains a feeling of incompetency. He develops a sense of inadequacy, inefficiency, unworthiness and anxiety. Such a person finds it extremely difficult to comply with the demands made upon him by society and alcohol looms as a way out. However, once the alcohol is removed his neurotic condition still remains and his painful feelings made more painful. Feelings of guilt and remorse plague this person until he is driven to the use of more and more alcohol to escape his mounting difficulties—all to no avail, of course. Thus, a vicious circle is set up and the victim caught in a vortex of confusion and despair.

Secondary Compulsion

The secondary compulsive drinker appears originally as a fairly well adjusted person. He may be an extrovert, centering his interests in other people, things and activities as opposed to the primary type who as an introvert, is a basically selfish, self-centered individual. The secondary type would not be labeled a neurotic at the outset of his drinking career. However, after relatively controlled drinking over a period of years, a situation or crisis might suddenly arise which he would attempt to solve or escape through alcohol. Up to this point, his use of alcohol had been for the drink itself—not for the relief of anxiety or tension. Hence, his drinking may have undergone a serious change. As later difficulties dawn, this person would be in extreme danger of resorting to alcohol as an escape medium and eventually provoke the inevitable family, occupation, financial and social troubles usually resulting from overindulgence.

Again, we see the vicious circle setting in for the secondary type. He would display all the maladjustments which the primary type had before he started to drink. In the last analysis, both types look and act alike in the throes of alcoholism.

holism, though basically they are different.

Overindulgent Mother

Dr. Edward Strecker has indicated that an overindulgent mother frequently plays a vital role on potential alcoholics. He feels that overindulgence in childhood sows the seeds of maladjustment and indecision in adult years. Such a person is a likely prospect for excessive drinking once alcohol's appeasing escape qualities have been discovered. He would encourage early childhood respect for reality to avoid later inclinations to escape such reality.

There is no conclusive answer as to why an individual becomes an alcoholic. However, it is obvious that the habitual use of alcohol together with certain personality defects are essential for the appearance of alcoholism. One is not an alcoholic unless his drinking is compulsive and is brought on by some inner drive or unresolved conflict.

The following article will describe the trademarks of alcoholic behavior—symptoms which indicate loss of control over alcohol and their relationship to the appearance of alcoholism.

America's Only Contact With China Now Is Through Missionaries, Welfare People

By CLARE BEACH

America's last contact with the Chinese people is now maintained by a brave and determined little band—the missionaries, educators, welfare people and doctors who represent private organizations over there.

Between 1,600 and 1,800 are left, scattered throughout China, according to one official.

Officials All Gone

All American officials are gone. American businesses are closing down rapidly. Most of their personnel are getting out as fast as they can. Some leading American businessmen have said they see little hope of maintaining their enterprises there—unless the Communist government changes its mind and decides it wants to trade with the United States. The government declares now that the country needs no imports of any kind.

But the private, religious, philanthropic and educational organizations have closed down very few of their establishments. Some of their American personnel have been evacuated, but their work is being carried on by native Chinese.

Days Numbered

The Communist government has not given them much trouble yet, according to both Protestant and Catholic sources. But most of them are gradually being tightened. Some leaders who have come from China recently predict that the pattern of Red conquest of eastern Europe eventually will be followed in China—purges, spy trials, religious persecution. Just now the new government is too busy with gigantic problems of administration which are more urgent.

Almost no relief materials have entered China since the Reds took over, according to welfare leaders here. The Chinese have placed a 25 per cent ad valorem duty on all relief goods imported, and this makes almost any relief project too expensive to be feasible.

In Shanghai the Communists have set up an agency to administer all relief—the Shanghai Production and Relief Committee. If any private relief organization ever hopes to operate, it will have to submit to the supervision of this agency—agreeing to whatever terms the Communists impose.

Money, however, still is flowing in freely to the missions. Reds even in Russia welcome American dollars. The missions in China simply write checks on American banks, where their funds are deposited.

Need Medical Aid

Last to suffer from Communist exclusion, it is believed, will be the medical missionaries, for China is desperately in need of medical help.

Meanwhile, whatever America has to say to its old friends, the Chinese people, will have to be said through the mission folk. They alone are now able to talk to their government of God, democracy, freedom, the dignity of the individual.

They will not be able to propagate for the American way of life. The representatives of the private organizations here say that their only hope of being tolerated by the new Communist masters of China lies in neutrality. They can only carry on the work of religion, charity, welfare and education.

Are Closely Watched

They are aware that they are being closely watched. Restrictions are gradually being tightened. Some leaders who have come from China recently predict that the pattern of Red conquest of eastern Europe eventually will be followed in China—purges, spy trials, religious persecution. Just now the new government is too busy with gigantic problems of administration which are more urgent.

Almost no relief materials have entered China since the Reds took over, according to welfare leaders here. The Chinese have placed a 25 per cent ad valorem duty on all relief goods imported, and this makes almost any relief project too expensive to be feasible.

New York, June 7—(AP)—Mrs. Edward S. Harkness, 75, widow of the financier whose philanthropies exceeded $120,000,000, died yesterday at her home here.

She and Harkness, a son of Stephen V. Harkness, one of the founders of the Standard Oil company, were married in 1904. They had no children. On Harkness' death, he left more than $55,000,000 in trust for public institutions.

Claim New Aluminum Coat Better than Steel

Baltimore, June 7—(AP)—The Glenn L. Martin Aircraft company has announced the development of a coating for aluminum that makes it twice as wear-resistant as case-hardened steel.

The new coating, designated as "MHC" finish is applied by an electrochemical process. For average jobs it is spread on about two-thousandths of an inch thick.

U. S. Orders Cut in Warsaw Embassy

Warsaw, Poland, June 7—(AP)—The U. S. State Department has ordered a 50 per cent reduction in the American embassy staff of 18 here. An attaché refused to say whether the cut had been demanded by the Polish government.

Truman Makes Bid for Help From Business

Washington, June 7—(AP)—President Truman made a bid for businessmen's support of his legislative program when he said last night the federal action in recent years has been "the salvation of private enterprise."

Pursuing the "reactionaries" as if he were still stamping the country, Truman told the 36th meeting of the Association of Better Business Bureaus that the alarms over Socialism raised by his critics are "timeworn, false and completely ridiculous."

"Action by government is necessary at times to make the private enterprise system work," he declared.

His own belief is that the government is entitled to part of the credit for the good times we are enjoying.

The President urged support for his program of aid to small business, sent to congress a month ago. It calls for insured loans, stimulants to investment, more liberal federal lending policies, and government advisory services.

"These measures will help our economy to maintain a constant and steady rate of growth," he said. "I very much hope this legislation will pass before congress goes home."

Russia Plans Control Commission Cut Soon

Berlin, June 7—(AP)—The Russians plan to cut the personnel in the German control commission by 20 to 25 per cent in the next two or three months, the Soviet-controlled ADN News Agency reported today.

The agency did not disclose how many employees are involved. The proposed reductions apply only to administrative personnel and not to occupation troops.

Class Reunion Sends Members Odd Request

Media, Pa., June 7—(AP)—The Glen-Nor high school class of '34 is holding a reunion Friday.

Invitations to the event bid the class members to "come and see the graying hair, the bald spot and the bulging hips."

SAN DIEGO PAPER CEASES PUBLICATION; HIGH COSTS

San Diego, Cal.—(AP)—The San Diego Daily Journal suspended publication, six years and two months after it was founded.

John A. Kennedy, editor and publisher, said the name, circulation lists, and publishing rights have been sold to the San Diego Union Tribune Publishing company, which publishes the Evening Tribune and the Morning Union. Kennedy said that "although circulation and advertising revenues of the Journal have been constantly increasing since December, 1947, the increase in publishing costs has risen twice as fast as has income."

French Vote Fails to Ban Coca Cola Drink

Paris, June 7—(AP)—Parliament's upper house last night defeated legislation aimed at banning Coca-Cola, criticized by conservative wine growers and anti-American Communists as a threat to French drinking habits.

Broke Her Legs 22 Times, But Marilyn Kay Hopes She'll Walk

Chicago, June 7—(AP)—Little Marilyn Kay Howard—a girl who broke her legs easier than most kids skinned their knees—is learning to walk again.

Her once useless legs have been "remade" and reinforced inside with steel rods.

The 13 year old Charleston, Ill. girl underwent a series of rare leg operations several months ago at the University of Illinois research hospital.

May Be Normal

Physicians said there now is a good chance her legs will grow back to normal.

"I never gave up hope, but I sure was surprised when they told me I would walk again," said the pretty blonde, blue-eyed girl. "It's wonderful."

Marilyn was born with a rare bone condition called osteogenesis imperfecta. It made her leg bones as brittle as matchsticks. By the time she was six, her legs had been broken seven times. The bones bowed sharply forward from knee to ankle.

She had to quit walking at six years of age. Once seated in a chair she broke a bone simply by uncrossing her legs too fast. Another was fractured above the knee when she turned in the front seat of a car to speak to a girl companion in the rear seat.

Her legs have been broken 22 times since she was two years old. At Illinois Research surgeons tried a radical new operation used

Johnson Says War With Reds A Last Resort

Chester, Penn., June 7—(AP)—Secretary of Defense Johnson said today he is convinced that "the sinister forces of Communist imperialism" can be stopped short of war.

Declaring that no one can foretell "with certainty whether we ultimately shall have to meet the challenge in grim battle," Johnson added:

"I certainly hope and pray we will not; and I am firmly convinced we will not if we exploit the military, economic, political and psychological advantages that are ours."

In a speech prepared for commencement exercises of Pennsylvania Military college at Chester, Penn., the defense chief said Communism has nothing to match America in any of those fields.

"Though it may seem to extend its influence here and there from time to time," Johnson added, "its victories ultimately will prove hollow in the long run. Communism will fail as have all of its forerunners that paraded under other names but had no spiritual quality to support them.

"Man was born to be free, and no slave state can shackle him for long," Johnson said.

The ancients consulted the birds for the purpose of foretelling the outcome of all important undertakings.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Good Prices for Cattle

A news item in Country Gentleman says, "Although a record number of beef cattle are jamming feed lots, particularly in the corn belt, and prospects point to a liberal supply of good to choice fat cattle on the market this fall, both feeders and economists expect prices to hold well, especially for the better grades." The magazine quotes a leading Iowa cattleman who observed, "Too many cattle have been going to market unfinished. Better grades will continue to sell at a good price."

As a matter of fact, production of most kinds of livestock is now on the increase, due to excellent feed prospects, an expanding consumer demand, and other favorable factors. Department of Agriculture economists forecast that this upward trend will continue for a considerable period of time. And the increase is not accounted for solely by the large producers. A great many smaller farmers are exhibiting a wider interest in livestock as one of the most dependable sources of cash income.

This is a nation of meat eaters. Recent medical discoveries have proven that a diet which is high in protein is essential to the health and stamina of the average individual—and protein in the whole state is found in meat, and in a very small number of other foods. Our per capita consumption of meat has been rising, and in all probability it will continue to do so. Livestock production, on a big scale or a small, offers great opportunities to agriculture.

Produce More, Live Better

Americans produce more and live better than any other people. And one reason for that is the American practice of using machinery to provide more jobs and better paying jobs for men and women, in every line of enterprise.

At the same time, an essential part of this process of living, better by producing more is economy in the use of manpower. This means putting men to doing productive work and not wasting their labor on useless and unnecessary tasks.

However, some labor groups are taking a short-sighted stand that is the opposite of that sound principle. The recent disturbances within the railroad industry over the size of crews needed to operate diesel locomotives is a particularly good example. These locomotives are safely and efficiently handled by two men—an engineer and a fireman. The locomotive firemen's union, however, demanded that the railroads put on a second fireman, who would have virtually nothing to do. That demand had been considered by two fact-finding boards appointed by the late President Roosevelt and by President Truman. Both boards inquired exhaustively into the facts, heard the testimony of both sides, and decided unanimously that there is no need for a third man on the engine for safety or any other reason.

The union's demand was a "make-work" scheme, pure and simple. It would serve no useful purpose. It would waste highly-skilled and highly-paid labor. It would add greatly to the cost of running the railroads—and the bill would have to be paid by every one who rides a train or ships goods by rail. It is a good thing for the nation that the union at last withdrew its unreasonable demand.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Face Polio With Caution; Don't Become Hysterical

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

The fact that polio, or infantile paralysis, so often strikes without warning and in other ways seems to behave so mysteriously has made people much more afraid of it than they ought to be. For example, last year more than 42,000 cases of polio were reported in the United States.

Although the largest number ever to be recorded in a single year, this was only a very small part of the population. Furthermore, only a few victims died and only about half of those attacked had any permanent paralysis, even including those whose paralysis was slight.

The polio last year was not evenly distributed in different parts of the United States. The attack rate varied from 56 for every 100,000 people in Idaho to only 5 for every 100,000 in South Carolina.

This is typical. One year polio may be bad in one area and the next year in an entirely different region. No one knows why this should be and it is one of the curious aspects of the disease.

In fact, no one can predict when a bad year for polio is due or what areas may become most seriously involved. Also, some years the death rate is higher than in others and in some years the numbers of those suffering permanent paralysis is greater than in others.

Dr. Jordan will answer questions from his readers in a special column once a week. Watch for it.

IN HOLLYWOOD

Hollywood — (NEA) — The cold war between Hollywood and television is getting warmer. A new order from the front office has Warner's publicity department in a nail-biting mood. No references can be made to that horrible word "television" in publicity releases.

All musical roles Frank Sinatra left behind at MGM will be filled by Vic Damone, which is an ironic twist. In 1942, when Frank was Mr. Big at New York's Paramount theater, the theater usher who ran errands for him was Vic Damone.

Lucille Ball counted out $4000 for those new gowns she'll wear in a personal appearance tour with hubby Desi Arnaz. . . . Dick Powell—against advice to the contrary—is sinking a hunk of his own money into his independent, "Cry Danger." . . . Latest dog-dash on the grapevine has it that Marguerite Chapman can qualify for Wall Street after the financial settlement she demanded, and got, from ex-husband Bentley Ryan. . . . Margaret O'Brien is the owner of two more Beverly Hills apartment buildings. . . . Jimmy Dunn is talking to the TeeVee Co. about playing a priest in a video series.

DENIES RUMORS

Nancy Kelly says the romantic links involving her with a lot of eligible swains are so much sausage. Her real love is a New York newspaper columnist. Nancy has slumped down—she's making her first Hollywood stage appearance in "Light Up the Sky"—and expects to go before the cameras again in June. She told me: "When I married, I gave up my career for five years. I was being a bride. Even moved to a ranch. Now I'm serious about acting again."

There's a big night club tour cooking for Mae Murray, who checked in her comeback at the Macombo here. . . . Next Tennessee Williams story headed for the screen is "You Touched Me." Montgomery Clift co-authored the screenplay and will star. Tennessee says the film version of "The Glass Menagerie" is better than the play. Ditto Irving Berlin about "Annie Get Your Gun." . . . Sign on a Sunset Blvd. shoe-shine stand: "Lester—World-Celebrated Shoe Shiner." Everyone in Hollywood is famous.

The Movie Producers Association including the film censorship boys, has moved into a new building. Too bad. It spoils that wonderful item about films being censored in a building decorated with marble statues. . . . Betty Hutton's ex-mate, Ted Briskin, is keeping the wires hot from Chicago calling Anne Sterling. . . . A new title trend will exhaust moviegoers before they even get into the theaters. Coming up are "Girl on the Run," "Hunt the Man Down" and "He Ran All the Way."

Mark character actress Florence Bates down as the likeliest contender for the starring role in the film biography of Marie Dressler. She says:

"Yes there is studio interest in filming the Zoe Akins play about Marie ('Evening Star'). I didn't know Marie and I don't pretend to be another Marie. She can't be replaced. She was a combination of talent, force, heart, brains and guts. Real gutsy."

REAL MCCOY
Chill Willis talked like a mule for "Francis" but the Warner western, "Dallas," has a switch—a horse talks like Gary Cooper. Gary eludes the villains by neighing like a horse as he pushes through underbrush. Gary sheepishly tried a couple of neighs, but the sound was unmistakably a gargle. They hired a horse to impersonate Cooper impersonating a horse.

A big cowboy star is blushing after landing on the cutting room floor at a major studio. For a gag finish to a comedy picture, he was hired to ride in and rescue the hero from a lynching party, then crack "I guess I'm in the wrong picture" and gallop off.

The scene got howls from studio heads but laid an egg with nary a laugh at seven sneak previews. Audiences in major theaters just didn't recognize the cowboy star. The picture will be released with a different finish.

Ronald Colman is Hollywood's absent-minded professor just before his air show, "Halls of Ivy," hits the mike. Mrs. C. tested him out the other day five minutes before airtime. "Ronnie," said Bonita, "I feel faint and I don't think I'll go on this time."

Colman beamed back: "Fine, Bonita, but let's talk about it after we do the show."

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Generosity
Got Points
By OSWALD JACOBY

"Some players are always taking the joy out of life," said Generous George. "As for me, I like to spread sunshine around. I, somebody takes a finesse against me I root for him instead of for myself."

"I wish you wouldn't root so hard," moaned South. "I'd have won the rubber if you had only taken that first diamond trick."

South was perfectly right. George's "generosity" had cost his opponent three tricks.

West opened the eight of spades and South won with the jack. Declarer counted up his tricks and saw that he could win three spades, two hearts, and two clubs. He needed two additional tricks in order to make his contract, and diamonds was the only suit in which those tricks could be developed. At the second trick therefore, South led the nine of diamonds from his hand and let it ride for a finesse.

It was at this point that Generous George, holding the East cards, suddenly felt sorry for his opponents. Since he held both the ace and the queen of diamonds, he knew that declarer's finesse was not going to work. Obviously, George could have won the first diamond trick with the queen. Instead he threw his low diamond, "just to make declarer feel a little better."

When South's nine of diamonds held the trick, he led another diamond, and this time George took his queen. This killed declarer's chance of making his contract. Since he had no further diamonds in his own hand, he could establish dummy's suit only by entering the dummy with the ace of spades and leading a diamond. However, this would do South no good. Once he had established the diamonds he would never be able to get back to the dummy to cash them.

Since he was able to make only one diamond, South ended up with only eight tricks. As South entered 100 points on the cream's side of the score pad, he reflected bitterly that he would have made eleven tricks if Generous George had won the first diamond.

If George had had that mistake the play would have proceeded in a very straightforward manner. Declarer would win any return in his own hand. He would then lead his remaining diamond, continuing the suit if necessary until East took his ace. Then dummy could be entered with the ace of spades to cash the rest of the diamonds. South would therefore make four diamond tricks in addition to his seven tricks in the other suits.

I Cor. 6:12, 15-20, I Tim. 5:14; I Cor. 7:9

STEPS TO SEX VICTORY

If we are to use the powers of sex aright, then we should take the following steps: (1) We should recognize sex for what it is—a God-given power, neither moral nor immoral in itself, but moral or immoral according to its use.

This should take the shame out of our consideration of sex itself and put it where it belongs—on our use of sex. If people would be ashamed of what they do with sex and not of sex itself then there would be more normal, healthy attitudes toward it. Sex has brought more heaven and more hell into life than has any other thing. And we make the heaven or the hell according to what we do with sex.

Every normal person has sex desire—to act as if we have no sex desire is to produce hypocrisy and probably complexes. Bring the fact of sex up into the open in your thinking—look at it, but not too long, and then decide what you are going to do with it. Note: What you are going to do with it, and not what it is going to do with you. For sex is a wonderful servant, but a terrible master. It can serve all the interests of life, or it can ruin all the interests of life. The battle of life as a whole will probably not rise above the sex battle. Lose the sex battle and defeat spreads into every portion of your being; win the sex battle and all life is uplifted by that victory.

(2) The place of sex is not the first place, and sex is not an end in itself. If you put sex first, it will corrupt your whole life. Those who most ardently give sex the first place and make it an end in itself get the least out of it—little except kickbacks in the form of disgust and self-loathing. The law of sex life is this: He that saveth his sex life—makes it first, an end in itself—loseth it. And the law works with mathematical precision; there are no exceptions and no exemptions.

Seek first the Kingdom of God—make sex serve the Kingdom, and every legitimate joy connected with sex will be added.

O God, I see, if sex takes Thy place and rules me, that I shall be the servant of a desire. And that desire will ride me to the hell of self-loathing. I would therefore bring my sex life to the altar of Thy love and there ask Thee to make it the servant of my love to Thee. May these lesser loves fit into my love to Thee. Amen.

Westbrook Pegler

Pegler things McGrath should tell why Allen Smiley, gambling racketeer, a Russian, hasn't been deported.

President Truman has authorized a committee of senators to examine the tax returns of persons alleged by irresponsible accusers to be big-shot gamblers and racketeers. I will merely note for the record the contrast between this off-handed assumption that these persons are gamblers and racketeers and the vast disturbance and the cries of "witch-hunt" which attend accusations against traitors in the State Department.

The individuals here accused by insinuation are notorious idlers who are found guilty by association. They hang around gambling joints. They don't work. They have plenty of money.

A traitor who runs with Communists, however, who makes speeches at party-front meetings, joins their committees and writes for their papers, is presumed to be innocent because he has a Harvard law degree, is a friend of Eleanor the Great and has been denounced "Fascism."

Gambling, of itself, is the least harmful of our vices. Treason and spying may be fatal.

Senator Kefauver of Tennessee, a Democrat, the chairman of the investigating committee, seems naive. He said the committee had discovered a "link" between a Florida gambler and one on the West Coast.

Like New Dealers
The underworld has always mystified me. Its personalities, like new dealers, are always coming and going, rising and falling, and, like the new deal, it keeps its inner business to itself.

Some reporters are very worldly, professing to know all about the underworld at all times. I am no expert. When I have a mission, I brush up, try to understand the relations of the characters at the time, get it over with and forget it.

In one such study I discovered that a Hollywood hoodlum known as Allen Smiley, an old intimate of George Raft, Buggsy Siegel and others, was a Russian war-bab named Aaron Smekhoff or Smeshoff who had entered this country illegally and, if the immigration laws meant anything, must be deported to Canada whence he had come across our lines at Windsor, Ont. The Department of Justice is taking years to deport him, although Mr. McGrath, our attorney-general, has announced that crime must go and that he will leave no stone unturned.

For Senator Kefauver's enlightenment and by way of earning my wage this day, I refer, not for the first time, to a transcript of the examination of Barney Ruditsky, a retired, and pensioned, New York policeman. Barney went to Hollywood and became a bad-debt collector for Buggsy Siegel, a historic underworld character who nevertheless had social connections with some of the fabulous fools of New York and Hollywood the rich trash. The Jeeter Lesters of Park Avenue.

Siegel Murdered
Siegel somehow dug up millions to build the luxurious Flamingo Hotel and gambling house in Las Vegas Nev. About $4,000,000 of that money never has been accounted for. He was shot dead in his girl's house in Beverly Hills in June, 1947. Smiley or Smekhoff or Smeshoff was with him.

On June 21, 1947, Ruditsky made a statement to John Barnes, assistant district attorney, under examination by H. L. Stanley, chief of the Bureau of Investigation. He was running a collection agency called the Associated Security Council, handling about $10,000 a month of bouncing checks and other bad debts for Flamingo, alone, in addition to other accounts. He got 25 per cent of all money collected. He did not say he collected all of the bad accounts. He just did his best. He said Smiley also was acting as collector for Siegel and Flamingo.

Stanley asked about employes in the Flamingo. Ruditsky mentioned "Monk Shafer from Detroit, a gambler."

Control Gambling
"Monk was one of the partners in the old Colonial Inn in Florida," he said. "He was a partner in two places they had in Union City, N. J. There was a combination of 35 or 40 from the east and middle west who have controlled gambling pretty well throughout the east, Florida and New Jersey. There was Buggsy, his partner, Myer Lansky, Myer's brother, Jake, Abe Zwillman, Doc Harris from Newark, Nigger Dan Rosen from Philadelphia, Harry Rosen from Philadelphia, two brothers. And Phil Kastel and Frank Costello from New Orleans. He owns the Beverly Club in New Orleans gambling. Frank Costello, Kastel's partner, they have slot machines throughout New Orleans and the east. Then you have Sweeney from Boston, Eddie McGrath from New York, who is employed at the Flamingo, Arty Beiler, from Florida and New York. He is working at Flamingo row. Packy Koffman works there. Hymie Siegel from New York, no relation to Benny, working in the Flamingo. Monk Shafer works there. He was interested in the eastern places, too. And there is a fellow by the name of Tom. He is a partner of Moe, Dimples, Widensky who was shot and killed three years ago in New York."

Now Manufacturer
"What is Tom's business now?" "Manufacturing coats and suits. All the old companions of Benny Siegel are in the coat and suit business."

"Who would you say is the majority stockholder?" "Buggsy was the—well, probably a fellow called—well, Abe Zwillman, from New Jersey, Harry Rosen, from Philadelphia, and there's a fellow named Louis Shomberg, known as Papa Louis. In my opinion this is the man that is the boss throughout America. He was here about two years ago. Stayed at the hotel with Doc Rosen. They weren't registered under those names, I'd pretty sure."

The F. B. I. could furnish the rest of Ruditsky's statement, or the committee could summon Barney and Smiley and any number of other knowing individuals, although I confess I can't see the importance of it all to the United States senate, with one important exception. I think Mr. McGrath ought to explain why Allen Smiley hasn't been deported.

RUTH MILLETT

Good Marriage Result of Teamwork, Not Just Luck.

"There must be a better kind of marriage than the one I have," writes a puzzled and unhappy young wife. "My husband and I have nothing in common but the children. We don't really enjoy each other's company at all."

Certainly, there is a better kind of marriage than that. But the better kind aren't just accidents that happen to two lucky people. They are the result of a husband and wife's thinking of themselves as a team rather than of two individuals pulling against each other, each determined to do as he pleases.

It might help this wife to ask herself a few questions and to answer them honestly.

Did I try harder before marriage than I have tried afterward to share my husband's more important interests?

Have I made any effort at all to try to find some forms of recreation that we could both enjoy, in-marriage than the one I have, instead of clinging stubbornly to my interests he doesn't seem to want to share?

SHOULD SHARE
MUTUAL FRIENDS
Do I see it that the people we entertain are as often his friends as mine?

Do I feel that the things I am interested in are more worthwhile or on a higher plane than the things that interest him?

Would I honestly rather spend an evening doing something that he enjoys because it is a shared experience than to sit at home alone feeling superior while he goes to a ball game or a wrestling match without me?

A little questioning of her married friends would probably show this wife that often the woman who shares her husband's interests learned to like the things he liked AFTER marriage.

INTERMEDIATE TROOP 11

This troop is made up of the sixth graders from the three rooms at Lincoln school and is under the direction of Miss Margaret Knight and Mrs. Don Ennert. They have been working toward their second class badges this year and in addition have earned part of their foot traveller's badge.

They have hiked to the Three-Mile orchard and other places ending with many cook-outs. Mock angel food and camper's stew have been their favorite dishes. The troop made knapsacks and are filling a friendship bag for a troop overseas.

A Scout birthday party with guests was held in March. The troop planned to have an overnight camping trip to Camp Ralston May 26-27.

Officers and members of the troop are Donna Kayl Kelso, president; Patsy Ann Willstead, vice-president; Yvonne Loeschner, secretary; Dorothy Smith, treasurer; Martha Finch, Leota Ortgiesen, Amelia Bruce, Diane Tate, Norma Tate, Carol Huttstutler, Rogene Moore, Winifred Mumford, Jessie Blend, Faye Edwards, Carol Strub, Sally Beede, Patricia Brown and Barbara Nicklaus.

Their first big activity last fall was a broadcast.

Before Christmas they made stuffed assorted felt animal beanbags for the crippled children at the Riley Memorial hospital in Indianapolis. For their mothers for Christmas they planted bulbs in pots late in November and tended them and gave them to their mothers. They embroidered tea towels and aprons for their mothers as a sewing project.

At Easter time they made place cards for the Lee County infirmary.

They have enough money in their treasury through the sale of 226 boxes of cookies to pay the registration for next fall and to send the entire group to Day Camp without any expense.

They worked on three plays for their "fly-up" ceremony when they become Girl Scouts. These were given at the Loveland Community House May 29 for the parents and friends of the troop.

They have had parties from time to time throughout the year. Members of the troop are Bonnie Anderson, Donna Burch, Sandra Becke, Sharon Cox, Kay Puffs, Nancy Glessner, Carol Hand, Donna Heckman, Wanda Helfrick, Donna Helfrick, Karen Krug, Janice Law, Susan Rintoul, Sandra Rhines, Joyce Rhodes, Nancy Ryan, and Shirley Spotts.

of the Narcotic Bureau gave the committee a secret list of 800 names yesterday which senators said was the "Who's Who" in the narcotics ring. This information is the result of 20 years of investigation.
Senator Ferguson (R-Mich.) predicted that the committee will find that big-time gambling and crime are linked with politics in many places.
"If there is a big-time operation," Ferguson said, "it must have political tie-ups. Crime as a wholesale proposition can't exist without pay-offs to somebody in political power."
Kefauver said his committee already has convincing proof that there is a link between big-time gambling and crime, including traffic in narcotics.
"The evidence we have," he said, "confirms our belief that this tie-up does exist."
List of 800 Names
The chairman said an investigation of gambling in Florida disclosed names which are on the secret list of 800 involved in the narcotic racket.
Senator Tobey (R-N.H.), a committee member, said the list included the names of 50 major criminals and about 200 dope peddlers. The others, he said, were connected with white slavery and criminal operations linked with the narcotic traffic.
"This combine is interlarded and sprawled across the nation," he said.
Anslinger, in a closed-door meeting, was quoted as having told senators that New York, California and Florida are the centers of narcotic traffic in the United States, with the main source of supply in Istanbul, Turkey.

Priceless Records Destroyed by Fire At Ann Arbor, Mich.

Ann Arbor, Mich., June 7 (AP)—Priceless records and the work of years of research were destroyed in a fire which swept the University of Michigan's historic Hovey Hall yesterday.
The university estimated that to replace the 87-year-old building would cost $3,500,000.
One fireman was injured. Five student volunteer fire fighters were overcome by smoke.
The blaze was first noticed on the roof in late afternoon. Four hundred students taking final examinations in the building fled outside safely.
The cause of the fire was undetermined.

Sen. Gurney Is Loser to Case In So. Dakota

Sioux Falls, S. D., June 7 (AP)—U. S. Senator Chan Gurney, seeking his third six year term, was defeated for renomination in yesterday's South Dakota Republican primary by Rep. Francis Case.
Case, a veteran of 14 years in the house, led Gurney by some 14,000 votes with around 300 of the state's 1,946 precincts unreported. Gurney, ranking minority leader of the senate armed services committee, conceded defeat last night with more than two-thirds of the vote counted.
Case's opponent in the general election next fall will be John A. Engel, Avon attorney and also the Democratic nominee in 1948. Engel, a supporter of President Truman, refrained from endorsing the Branpan Farm Price plan.
In 1,633 of the state's 1,946 precincts, Case had 52,973 votes to 39,215 for Gurney.
The Republican nomination for governor probably will go to the state convention in July. With 318 precincts unreported, Attorney General Sigurd Anderson was leading the field. However, he had only 25.3 per cent of the vote. Many of the precincts missing are in West River country and are expected to be predominantly for Joe Foss, World War II hero, and Lloyd Leedom, Rapid City attorney. Foss had 33.2 per cent of the vote cast. Thirty-five per cent is necessary for nomination.
In 1,628 of the state's 1,946 precincts, Anderson had 32,015 votes, Foss 30,138 and Leedom 18,010.

Bakers End Strike; Get 10c Boost bakers returned to work today in Illinois. The union originally sought benefits averaging 40 cents an hour more than the average wage of $2 cents.

Last week-end, after a series of meetings with federal mediators, the union rejected a proposal including welfare and security benefits. A statewide vote decided the rejection after union spokesmen stated that it cut the net wage increase to six cents an hour.
The 10 cents an hour boost pattern was begun yesterday. Union members then returned to their jobs in most of the affected cities.

area and admitted that the garbage disposal problem in Dixon is somewhat of a headache. He indicated that within two weeks he expected to have some definite news regarding other dump sites.

a building on it, or at the best, part of a building. Mayor Hoffmann insisted that Vaile's department must remain within its budget and he intends to see that it does. Hoffmann said that if a building is constructed on the lot it will have to come within the $10,000 figure. (It has been estimated that it will cost about $13,000).
The mayor indicated a claim by Commissioner Vaile that the Street Department had several thousand dollars in the city contingency fund to take care of the lot purchase and the proposed building. The mayor pointed out that any moneys received by any department must, by law, go into the general fund—and that talk of a department having money in the contingency fund is misleading.
The Mayor Explains It
Vaile had said that the Street Department placed money in the contingency fund that it had received from the sale of property and equipment.
The mayor said that all departments earn money each year that by law must go into the General Fund, not the Contingent Fund. As an example, the cemetery earns approximately $14,000 a year; fines contribute approximately $9,000 a year; licenses earn $22,000 a year. All these earnings are figured in the over-all budget of the city as general taxation contributes about one-half of the moneys needed to operate the city in any fiscal year.
General tax on city property was lowered the past year by the city council and Mr. Hoffmann insists that further spending in excess of appropriations be stopped.

Bob Hope, Sponsor End 12 Year Deal

New York, June 7 (AP)—Comedian Bob Hope and his radio sponsor, the Lever Brothers Co., will call it quits a week from tonight after a 12-year association.
Lever has disclosed that it will not renew its option on Hope's show for next fall and also is releasing the one-half hour Tuesday night time period on the National Broadcasting Co. network.
The action came after trade reports of dissatisfaction on both sides over the Hope-Lever association. Hope wanted to record his radio shows on tape in advance but the company insisted on live performances at the time of broadcast.
Hope now is a free agent to deal with another radio sponsor or expand his television activities.

McCarthy produced a photographic copy of the report, which also said that two months after the FBI submitted the chart to the State Department, the agency had dropped only 18 of the 124.
"At least three or those listed as Communist agents by the FBI are still holding high positions in the State Department," McCarthy said in a senate speech.
Department Replies
Last night the State Department fired back: "That statement is absolutely false." The department added:
"The senator based his charge on the completely erroneous belief that the FBI prepared a chart which purportedly evaluated departmental personnel in terms of 'agents,' 'Communists,' etc."
"1. No such chart ever was received by the Department of State from the FBI."
"2. The Department of Justice has informed us that no such chart was ever prepared by the FBI."
"3. The chart in question was merely a preliminary working document prepared by one of the State Department's security officers as a basis for further examination."
"4. No persons purportedly identified on the chart as Communist agents, Communists or the like are now employed by the Department of State except those whose loyalty has since been thoroughly checked, evaluated and reviewed under the president's loyalty program."

Noted Lutheran Says Sacrifice An Aid to Unity

Washington, June 7 — (AP) — The president of the fifth largest Lutheran church in this country said today that "one of the prices for Lutheran unity is the giving up something peculiarly our own."

But, he quickly added, "We must be prepared to pay that price willingly for the sake of the objectives to be attained."

Dr. P. O. Bersell, elected head of the Augustana Evangelical Lutheran church, made those two points as he gave his annual message as president to some 500 delegates from the 13 conferences (geographical divisions) of the church.

He told a reporter yesterday he was "amazed" at lack of control the couple's fifth anniversary. A verbal questioning when he raised the unit issue in a preliminary scramble supper was enjoyed.

Soviet Tanks--Are They Real Power or a Russian Weakness?

By HAL BOYLE
New York (AP)—Are the Russians gambling on limitless numbers of superior tanks as their chance in the hole if war comes? That would seem to be the guess of high American defense officials.

The United States, which never in the second World War produced a tank which could slug on equal terms with German armor apparently has decided it now won't compete in this field with Russian tanks—which were as good as, or better than, the Germans.

Fourteen years after Adolf Hitler marched into the Rhineland America now has a tank certainly the equal of those Hitler relied on in 1936. But we still don't have one as good as the Russians have now.

This was admitted by the new secretary of the army, Frank Pace, Jr., in a speech yesterday to the graduating class of the U. S. military academy at West Point.

Best Air Force
Pace assured the young West Pointers they had the opportunity of going into the best air force, "without" qualification in the world.

The secretary pointed out how important scientific research was to the army, and added:

Our army as I have said remains you, not only is outnumbered tremendously by the ground forces of our most dangerous antagonist, but is also at a disadvantage qualitatively in certain categories of equipment, most notably in tanks.

Well, naturally, the question that arises with any armored veteran who survived a duel between a Sherman tank and a German Panzer tank is, "Why, with all our inventive skill, can't we produce a tank as good as the Russians five years after the war is over?"

Army's Answer
The army's answer is that if war comes, it will face Russia's masses with smaller units equipped with unclassified weapons that can handle tanks. Presumably

Senate Gives Farm Supports Two Billions

Washington, June 7—(AP)—The senate passed a bill today authorizing an additional $2,000,000,000 for government support of farm prices.

The measure, similar to one approved by the house, increases by that amount the price supporting capacity of the Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC), which maintains the support program.

If finally approved by congress and the president it would authorize CCC to use up to $6,750,000,000 in bolstering price props on basic crops. It now goes back to the house for action on a senate amendment relating to imports of foreign farm products.

The final senate vote—46 to 5—came early this morning after a long night session in which the bill's supporters beat down a Republican attempt to cut back price prop levels immediately.

This move, by Senator Williams (R-Del.) and seven other GOP senators, was defeated on a 50 to 18 roll call vote.

A Republican motion for adjournment also was defeated when

Remember Jean Harlow? She Died Just 13 Years Ago Today

By BOB THOMAS
Hollywood, June 7—(AP)—She seemed to be a girl who was amazingly lucky, and yet her whole life was dogged by ill fortune. That was Jean Harlow, who died 13 years ago today.

No matter what I do, I always end up on page one," signed the platinum blonde from Kansas City. And she was right. In the eight short years that she flashed across the Hollywood scene, she created an impression that is still vivid in the public mind today.

Wom a Bet
It was luck that got her into the movies. A friend bet her she didn't have the nerve to present a letter of introduction to a casting director. Jean took the bet and got a job.

Born Harlow Carpenter, she took her mother's maiden name Jean. At 16, she ran away from home to marry Chicago sportsman Charles McGrew and came to California. They were divorced two years later.

In 1932, she married Paul Bern, film executive. A month later, his nude body was found on the bathroom floor of their Beverly Hills home, a bullet in his temple and the gun in his hand.

Married Kossen
The following year, the actress married cameraman Hal Kossen, but a divorce followed a few months later.

Perhaps her greatest love was William Powell. She and the actor had the same kind of humor and enjoyed each other's company tremendously. But whatever plans they had for marriage ended with her death on June 7, 1937.

When she died, Miss Harlow was earning $4,000 a week. But when the estate was figured up, only $41,000 was left.

Fence posts are best cut in the spring and seasoned over the summer.

THE Easy Way TO PAY YOUR FUEL OIL BILLS

USE THE NEW SMITH FUEL OIL BUDGET PLAN

MAKE BIG WINTER FUEL OIL BILLS A THING OF THE PAST

- ★ No Service Charge
- ★ No Carrying Charge

This plan is designed to level the peak load which heating requirements placed upon your pocketbook during the winter months. Here is how it works; we estimate the number of gallons of fuel oil you would use in a normal heating season from September 1 to May 31. We total the estimated cost, and divide by nine. The result is your fuel oil Budget Payment for your particular requirements.

TYPICAL EXAMPLE:

If your heating bill should total $144.00 for the season, 9 equal payments would be $16.00 per month. Notice that under regular monthly billing, January charges (see chart) would be $28.80 because January fuel oil consumption is 19 1/2% of the heating season total.

At the end of the season, Smith Oil & Refining Company will refund any overpayment by check, or will render an adjusted bill if more oil is used than anticipated.

ALL THIS, AND AUTOMATIC FUEL OIL DELIVERY SERVICE, TOO

Automatic delivery service places the responsibility upon us for keeping your fuel oil tank adequately supplied at all times. Your fuel oil needs are calculated by a method based on average daily temperatures. When your tank requires oil, a delivery is made without a reminder on your part, or any effort on your part. You don't even have to be at home.

FOR YOUR CONVENIENCE

We will send you a reminder the first of each month. You can make your budget payments by mail or in person at the Smith Oil main office in Rockford or to your local Smith Fuel Oil dealer. All Budget Plan accounts will be placed on Automatic Fuel Oil Delivery Service.

If you desire to take advantage of this Service, mail the Coupon or call your local Smith Fuel Oil Dealer. Our Representative will submit, for your consideration, a Budget Plan suited to your particular requirements.
